Marie Selby Botanical Gardens

November 18, 2005 9:30 am – 12:00 noon

Cost: $ 15.00

The peaceful retreat on Sarasota Bay, just south of downtown, is said to be the only botanical garden in the world specializing in the preservation, study and research of epiphytes, that is, "air plants" such as orchids.

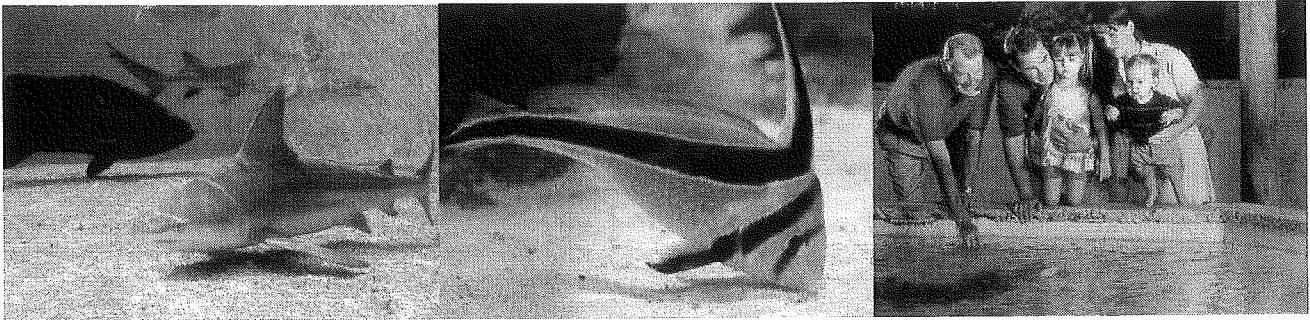

The 8.5 acre tropical oasis, Selby Gardens is home to more than 20,000 exotic and colorful plants, including a living collection of more than 6,000 orchids, many collected in the wild by the Gardens' research and conservation scientists on more than 150 scientific expeditions to tropical rainforests.

We will start our tour with a private class with the resident "Orchid Grower" who will cover topics including orchid care and replanting orchids.

We will then proceed to have a private guided tour of the Selby Botanical Gardens where we will see a bamboo pavilion, a butterfly and hummingbird garden, a waterfall garden and a hibiscus garden. In addition we will tour the Selby home and the Payne Mansion, which are both on the national registry.

Mark the date and join me Friday November 18th at 9:30 am in front lobby area of the Ritz Carlton hotel and travel to this wonderful botanical garden. See the sign up sheet.

MOTE AQUARIUM

Mote Aquarium

Mote Aquarium hosts nearly 400,000 visitors a year in Sarasota, Florida, where a variety of marine life - from the smallest critters to apex predators - are showcased. The aquarium's many exhibits are designed to highlight the marine research performed by the scientists at Mote Marine Laboratory.

Mote Aquarium also features trained docents situated throughout the aquarium who are always on hand to answer your questions and provide you with an interactive experience. SEA life at Mote!

Shark Habitat

We continue our shark obsession with the Shark Habitat – after all, as the nation's only congressionally designated Center for Shark Research, we have to!

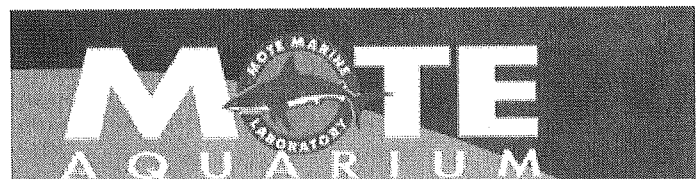

Florida has nurse sharks, bull sharks, blacktips and sandbar sharks - among others - and you can get closer than you'd like at Mote's 135,000-gallon shark habitat. This exhibit is also home to the world's largest grouper species, the goliath grouper (yes, he's a cousin to Florida's favorite seafood dish) and some of the world's most sporting fish: tarpon, snook and redfish. That's nearly a grand slam, by local angling lore.

CREATURES FROM THE REEF

Meet the colorful creatures that inhabit the dramatic beauty of Florida's reefs: French angel fish and damsels, spotfin butterfly fish and hogfish, to name just a few. Enjoy the shocking colors and fascinating features, but beware the sting-y sea nettles and jellyfish.

Next to the reef, you'll find more Florida natives: toadfish and scorpionfish. Also spiny and slipper lobsters, so unlike their red cousins from Maine.

And don't miss the delicate seahorses – born and raised at Mote Aquarium. Did you know that male seahorses actually give birth to the young?

RINGLING MUSEUM OF ART

The John and Mable Ringling Museum of Art was created in 1927 by John and Mable Ringling for the people of Florida. Having made a fortune through the family-owned circus and, later through real estate and railroads ventures, John Ringling amassed an art collection of over 600 paintings, sculptures, and various decorative arts including more than 25 tapestries. Actively collecting for the Museum over the period from 1924 to 1931, Ringling and his wife, Mable, gathered important works by Cranach, Rubens, Poussin, Hals, Van Dyck, Guercino and other major artists who worked primarily from 1500 to about 1750. The Old Master collection, now including approximately 750 paintings, is the most important area of the Museum's holdings. Within it are Italian paintings that are among the rarest and most celebrated in the United States. The Museum's art collection now consists of over 10,000 objects that include a wide variety of paintings, sculpture, drawings, prints, photographs and decorative arts from ancient through contemporary periods and from throughout the world. The bayfront estate is located on the West Coast of Florida in the city of Sarasota (Sarasota County), just south of the city of Bradenton and the Manatee County lines. Ringling purchased the then-31-acre property, with an existing frame house, for a winter-vacation residence in 1911. In the early 1920s, he began to engage in extensive real estate development in the area and in 1924, began construction of his mansion, Cà d'Zan, and, in 1927, the Art Museum. He established the circus winter quarters in Sarasota also in 1927.

Ringling's real estate development was noteworthy for the role he assigned to art, shown even today in the statuary still decorating and enhancing his road network. Most importantly, however, he understood the role an art museum could play in enriching people's lives. Ten years after John's death, the State of Florida agreed to accept the estate and provide funds toward the continued operation of the Museum as a public institution.

The Museum of Art was designed by John H. Phillips and incorporates many architectural elements, dominantly Italianate, that the Ringlings brought back from Europe.

The Museum's Courtyard is arcaded on three sides by Loggias. It is inhabited by statues of Greek and Roman gods and goddesses, copies of predominately ancient and Mannerist sculpture which enhance the architecture and form a charming twentieth-century American version of a European formal garden.

The Art Galleries reside within the building around this Courtyard. Over 400 objects from the Museum's permanent collection, including paintings, drawings, prints, decorative arts, and photography are on view for the public in these galleries. In 1998-99, the Art Galleries were completely reinstalled.
